THE ISLE OF WIGHT TRIANGLE

Tony Wedd was convinced that there was a connection between UFO sightings and leys, alignments of ancient sites, and based his now iconic booklet Skyways and Landmarks on this. A recent visit to the Isle of Wight with the Network of Ley Hunters reminded me that there is a right-angled triangle there of UFO-related leys found in the 1960s formed of alignments coming from the mainland. Each of the three lines was found independently by a different person. One was Gordon Creighton, later to be editor of Flying Saucer Review. Another was Ken Rogers, later to write the book The Warminster Triangle. The third one was found by me, and includes two UFO sightings I had.

Gordon Creighton's alignment was from 1963, and he noticed that a sighting in Bruton, Somerset and one in Ringwood, Hampshire on the same day (further details were not kept unfortunately) seemed to align with the Charlton Crater, which was headline news in that year. It appeared in farmer Roy Blanchard's potato field, and was thoroughly investigated by Flying Saucer Review and UFO groups. Some students claimed to have dug it and received wide newspaper publicity, but they later admitted that the claim was a hoax.

The line also goes through Nyland Hill, a ley centre in Somerset - a rather odd-looking hill protruding from an area of flat land. On the Isle of Wight it goes through Ventnor Church, a 687 spotmark on Stenbury Down, a cross-roads, Chillerton Down (547), Gallibury Hump, (a prominent hilltop tumulus), and a large multijunction at Newbridge. There is nothing apparent at the point where it crosses Ken Rogers' hypotenuse line in a wood near Yarmouth.

The hypotenuse ley was called the South Coast Orthoteny by Ken, though its sightings were not all on the same day. There was a translucent dome with a red light seen at Plymouth on January 3rd, 1966, and a strip of light "like two halfcrowns with a gap between" seen at Weymouth on April 28th, 1966. Then there was the only sighting made on the island, a pinkish oblong object at Yarmouth on January 2nd, 1966. Finally there was a sighting of which there are no further details at Portslade, Sussex, where the line meets one going from Finchley to Wandsworth.

As a ley on the Isle of Wight this line goes through Yarmouth Church, a coincident stretch of road there, Newtown Church, Hillcross Farm cross-road/track, cross-roads at Alverstone Farm, the new Quarr Abbey, possibly the old one too (though not certain exactly where the buildings were), then along a stretch of the coast and off to sea, through the middle of Ryde pier. It meets the eastern side of the triangle off the coast.

The eastern side, a line found by me, goes through the junction of the Great North and North Circular roads at Finchley; there were two UFO sightings here, both going in the direction of the line. Then at Hendon I made a sighting of an orange non-moving light in a daylight sky on February 28th, 1967. Continuing south, the line goes through a seemingly important ley centre at Sunbury Cross (now the beginning of the M3, then a multijunction with a number of interesting leys going through it, including the Silchester Ley originally found by Alfred Watkins). Then it goes through a clump on the Hog's Back near Guildford, where in June 1967 I saw another hovering orange light, this time at night, and confirmed by a BUFORA skywatch at Pewley Down, Guildford at the time.

On the Isle of Wight, coming southwards, this line crosses the coast at St. John's Park, Ryde, and goes through a small church there, then on to Ashley Down, where a doctor saw strange lights and had a timeslip experience in January 1969. It then goes through the site of the Knighton Gorges house, a place famous for paranormal activity, and a small church at Newchurch. It carries on to Godshill Church and a coincident stretch of road at Roud and finally the tower on St. Catherine's Hill. A very good ley, which seems to show that Tony Wedd's ideas could have been correct. This is made even more likely by the fact that this ley also crosses the Calais-Southend orthoteny (the only one of Aime Michel's lines to cross our coast) also at right angles, which means that line is parallel to Gordon Creighton's line. This suggests that these are part of a larger system. It is realised, of course, that UFO sightings cannot be precisely pinpointed as ancient sites can, so UFO-related alignments cannot be as exact as leys. But it seems remarkable that three of them found independently by three different people should create a right-angled triangle of leys on the island (which involves extension beyond the areas the UFOs were seen in two of the cases).

UFO over Portsmouth

The free newspaper Metro reported a UFO over Portsmouth two days after the Isle of Wight ley hunters' moot finished, though does not say when it was actually seen:

UFO spotted over Portsmouth –and the MET Office says it ISN'T a cloud

Matt Payton for Metro.co.uk

Saturday 20 Sep 2014 11:38 am

Many Portsmouth residents were surprised, even alarmed, to see what appeared to be a flying saucer over the south coast. UFO sightings in the United Kingdom have been mostly left to crop circles but now we have our very own spacecraft sighting.

Cynics among us might say that it is only a queerly shaped cloud but Laura Young from The Met Office is left baffled: 'After looking at the images, I can say the object is nothing to do with the weather. 'It is not meteorological and is not a cloud.'

South coast resident Johnny Blackwell spoke of what he saw: 'I don't believe in UFOs, but when I saw this I didn't know what it was.' The question now is, was it coming in peace?

UFO and alien sightings: 10 of the best from 2014 May 27, 2014 16:45

By Chris Richards, Daily Mirror

There has been something of a glut of UFO and alien sightings over the past few months. With that in mind, here is our look back at some of the close encounters that have been making the headlines in 2014.

1) UFO spotted hovering over iceberg in eastern Canada

An eyewitness claimed to have spotted a white object spinning and shape-shifting above the sea during an excursion to Salvador, Newfoundland.

2) US Army Air Force fighter jet destroys giant 'alien monster' in desert
A video uploaded to YouTube purports to show the moment a fighter jet bombs a bizarre, throbbing jelly-fish-like object in New Mexico, in the United States.

3) UFO whizzes past CCTV camera on darkened industrial estate

In this video, a bright, white object can be seen hurtling through the air at breakneck pace. It was recorded on a CCTV camera on an industrial site in Prokopyevsky, Russia.

4) UFO attacks Taliban camp in Afghanistan
This clip shows a triangular shaped airborne object open fire on an insurgent position. Explosions can be seen and a huge plume of smoke soon rises up into the sky.

5) Bizarre 'rotating' object spotted over London

A series of photographs showed a black, rotating object complete with a light in the skies above the capital. It later floated off in the direction of Highbury and Islington.

6) Mysterious UFO 'attempts to communicate with stunned deer'

Stills from a night-time 'deer-cam' showed two parallel beams of light in the background behind a startled deer. Camera owner Edith Shattles said: "It was something I've never seen before."

7) Bizarre triangular objects spotted flying in formation over Texas

Plane spotter Steve Douglass saw the craft alongside two others and took a photo - moments after claiming to have listened in to a conversation between two pilots.

8) Amateur photographer snaps mystery 'aircraft' streaking across the sky in Cornwall
Granddad Michael Potter photographed the 'blazing triangular shape' above the seaside holiday resort of Mounts Bay. He said: "The photo hasn't been photo-shopped or tampered with, so what is it the mysterious object?"

9) Bizarre UFO spotted by robot on surface of Mars

The 'spacecraft complete with vapour trail' was photographed by an unmanned Nasa rover at work on the surface of the Red Planet.

10) UFO spotted above airport causes flights to be cancelled and delayed

The object was spotted on radars at Germany's Bremen Airport but despite a police helicopter being scrambled, nothing was found.

UFO Sighting 2014: Fleet of UFOs Spotted over Normandy

By Minnie Nair September 22, 2014 16:36 IST

Video: <http://www.ibtimes.co.in/ufo-sighting-2014-fleet-ufos-spotted-over-normandyvideo-609670>

A fleet of seven UFOs have been reportedly seen by a witness in the afternoon sky of Normandy. The exact date of the sighting is not known, but the witness states that he was out taking a sun bath when he noticed the unusual activity between the clouds.

"I was on a yacht with a friend. We were sailing together, enjoying the beautiful blue sky in Normandy. I was watching a huge Chemtrail and some nice clouds while taking a sunbath, when my attention got turned away by something else (I don't remember). I stopped watching the sky for some minutes," the witness was quoted as saying by UFO Sightings Daily.

When the witness turned back and looked at the sky again, he noticed "some strange little dots of light near the huge Chemtrail," he said.

"As always, I had my iPhone in my pocket. So I immediately took it and recorded what I could. After checking on my PC screen, I counted seven white objects slowly descending inside the trail, and also disappearing behind it. It seems the huge orb is the mothership "leading" the fleet", the witness added.

"A large percentage of UFOs reported and recorded are white balls. Sometimes they look solid, but most the time they appear as glowing light. They sometimes hide in clouds and will go in and out of them periodically. Oh...and they do make their own clouds," Scott C Warring, Ufologist and writer of the blog UFO Sightings Daily commented on that video.

A dozen of UFO sightings are reported from different countries across the world in the month of September itself.

Earlier last week, residents of Portsmouth, England, reported seeing a UFO hovering over their skies. A classic disc-shaped UFO was photographed in the dusk sky by residents, who were quick to share images on the social networking sites, sparking mystery and debate among sceptics and Ufologists.

"I don't believe in UFOs, but when I saw this I didn't know what it was. It didn't look like a cloud, and it was moving very fast", 23-year-old Johnny Blackwell from Southsea was quoted as saying by Mail Online.

"It was a grey, disc-like shape, which I know sounds like a stereotypical UFO, but that's what it looked like", Blackwell added.

The Roswell Rock

In a programme in the In Search of Aliens TV series, Giorgio Tsoukalos reported on a strange rock that had been found 17 miles southeast of the site of the Roswell crash in New Mexico, USA. It had been found by Robert Ridge in September 4th 2004 while on a deer hunting trip - a small brown stone with a design of circles and crescents not etched in it but a raised pattern. Then in 2006 there was a crop formation near Silbury Hill in Wiltshire with a seemingly identical pattern and cerealogist Linda Moulton Howe linked the two. The crop pattern was 120 feet long and very precisely executed - and the pilot who saw it had flown over the area half an hour before and there was nothing there. Pictures of the rock and the formation fitted exactly when placed over each other. The rock also had magnetic properties in that it would spin if a magnet was brought close. Various tests were done on the rock including a CAT x-ray scan and it was found not to have a magnet inside. It was made of a kind of sandstone, unlike the limestone natural to the area where it was found.

The crop formation

Do Aliens Exist? Yes, And Some 'Look Just Like Us,' Says Paul Hellyer, Former Canadian Defense Minister By Nadine DeNinno

Paul Hellyer, the 90-year-old former Canadian defense minister and firm believer in extraterrestrial life, said aliens from places like Andromeda, Pleiades and Zeta Reticuli walk among us and "look just like us."

Lots of people believe in extraterrestrial life forms, but not many can give specific details about what they look like and where they're living. But that's just what Paul Hellyer, the now-90-year-old former defense minister of Canada, did in his recent interview with Russia. Today, claiming there are 80 different species of alien life, from places like Andromeda, Pleiades and Zeta Reticuli, and some look just like us.

"The latest reports that I've been getting from various sources are that there are about 80 different species and some of them look just like us and they could walk down the street and you wouldn't know if you walked past one," said Hellyer, who served during the Cold War, who went public with his theories on extraterrestrial life in 2005, The National Post reported. "They are what we call 'Nordic Blondes' and also the Tall Whites who were actually working with the U.S. air force in Nevada. They're able to get away with that; they had a couple of their ladies dressed as nuns go into Las Vegas to shop and they weren't detected.

... Then there's the Short Greys as they are called, and they are the ones you see in most of the cartoons, they have very slim arms and legs, they are very short, just a little over 5 feet, and they have a great big head and great big brown eyes. But there are different species and you have to know that they are different species and know that they all are different. If you saw the Short Greys, you'd certainly know there's something up that you've never seen before, but if you saw one of the Nordic Blondes, you'd probably say, "I wonder if she's from Denmark or somewhere."

But fear not: Hellyer said most of the aliens who have "been visiting our planet for thousands of years" are "benign and benevolent, and they do want to help us, [but] there may be one or two species which do not."

However, he does believe that these species, who have a "long history" — he said he knows of 50 reports of UFOs during the Cold War — are concerned about unconventional warfare.

"Since we invented the atomic bomb they are very concerned about that and the fact that we might use it again, and because the Cosmos is a unity and it affects not just us but other people in the Cosmos, they are very much afraid that we might be stupid enough to start using atomic weapons again, and this would be very bad for us and for them as well," he said.

"They don't want to tell us how to run our affairs, they have accepted the fact that this is our planet, and that we have the right to run it, but they are very-very concerned: they don't think we are good stewards of our planet, we're clear-cutting our forests, we're polluting our rivers and our lakes, and we're dumping sewage in the oceans, and we're doing all sorts of things that are not what good stewards of their homes should be doing. They don't like that and they made it very clear. As a matter of fact, they have given us a warning."

One of the most startling of all his claims, though, came about halfway through the interview when he was asked whether or not he's ever had an encounter personally with aliens.

"Not an encounter with aliens, no. I've seen a UFO, about 120 miles north of Toronto, over Lake Muskoka, where I have a cottage," he admitted. Hellyer said he and his wife had been looking at the stars when they spotted a UFO.

"We watched it until our necks almost broke for about 20 minutes, and it was definitely a UFO because it could change position in the sky by three or four degrees in three or four seconds," he said.

Hellyer went on to say that when he was minister, he received plenty of "sighting reports," though about 80 percent of them were "sights of Venus or of plasma or a dozen other things."

"But there were 15 percent or 20 percent for which there was no explanation, and they were the genuine unidentified flying objects," he added.

Hellyer said he's hopeful someone will crack the case and share their findings with the world that aliens do exist. "There's just so much evidence, if anybody will take time off to do a little bit of research and study... There's just a lot of information out there and it doesn't take very long to get your hands on it."

UFOs are not only real, they're already here

by Amanda Milkovits

The article is from Foster's Sunday Citizen and was taken off the Internet.

Dr. Ted Loder, a full-time professor of chemical oceanography at UNH, has spent more than a year studying UFOs and alien reports, and says he's convinced they're no joke. Now the 57-year-old Seacoast man says he wants to "wake up" everyone else. Loder represented the state of New Hampshire in a closed congressional briefing last summer, where those who claim to have seen UFOs requested a hearing with representatives from the White House, from the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and congressmen.

Loder became interested in UFOs more than a year ago, after his cousin, who had worked under President Eisenhower, told him that he'd seen material from a UFO that allegedly crashed in Roswell, N.M., in 1947. The military has said the material was from an experimental spy balloon — and not a UFO. Shows produced by Disney about UFOs, advertisements using aliens, crop circles, confidential military reports of UFO sightings -- Loder sees all those as proof that aliens are here, and a secret covert organization is trying to condition Americans into thinking it's all a myth. And hoaxers who build crop circles and debunk UFO sightings are actually paid off by the covert organization, he says.

Loder is a member of the Center for the Study of Extraterrestrial Intelligence (CSETI) and works with its director, Dr. Steven Greer. He says he's seen UFOs, and so have astronauts and top military officials who are finally coming forward. Loder realizes that much of what he believes sounds "out there" to casual observers, but believes he's playing the role of Cassandra by talking about the implications of the disclosure of extra-terrestrial realities - and the possibilities from using alien technology.

PROF. TED LODER: Our planet is being visited by alien craft and it's about time that people know this. This is the most important thing there is. ... I think the aliens who are visiting this planet are fed up with our monkey business. I mean, look at this planet. Look at this place. We're polluting ourselves to death... But I think the pressure is being put on by extra-terrestrials because there are more and more sightings going on.

FOSTER'S SUNDAY CITIZEN: Except, here's the other side. The Mutual UFO Network says of all the sightings they get, 90 percent are false.

LODER: There is some of Venus and swamp gas; it's so laughable it's ridiculous. But if you see a large metallic disk hovering over your house with lights shining down on you, totally silent, it's not going to be Venus, it's not going to be swamp gas. It's a real thing.

FSC: The standard line from the military is we do not investigate UFOs; we do not believe in UFOs. And in a way, you can also hear they are probably sick to death of these reports. ... And, come on, the military is not that good at covering stuff up.

LODER: That's why we know it's out there. They're trying to pull it over on us. Most people believe that.

FSC: Why bother covering something up? This is a capitalist society. If there's a great (alien technology) energy out there, we'd jump on it and make some money.

LODER: That's where we get into a diabolical nature of things. ... There's a cadre of military, covert military and industrial groups that have been working on this technology for 50 years. ... What happens when this stuff really comes out, not just you writing an article, but it finally makes people's consciousness? They leave their football game, their beer bottles and say, 'Holy cow. This stuff is really, really real.' ... (But) the message is, This is not real. ... That is the message the media has been putting out for 50 years. And you guys have been orchestrated by the people who are jerking your chains.

FSC: How will you answer those people who say, "no way?" Are you afraid for your job?

LODER: Listen, I went to a congressional briefing. There were senators and representatives there, OK. This is from a high level. This isn't from the tabloids. ... But I'll tell you one thing here, in order to understand the whole phenomena of UFOs, you have to understand the government's role, the military role, and some of this other fringe stuff. Because without it, the picture is incomplete. And the whole story makes up one of the most incredible, diabolical, strange, weird, whatever stories you've heard. I've heard so many things that I cannot believe when I first heard them, but six months later I'm saying, This is the way it is, guys. That's why you can't handle all the stuff I'm telling you, because I'm telling you stuff that's taken me a year and a half and hundreds of hours to learn, and I'm leaving out 80 percent of it.

from Norman Darwen, Lostock, Lancashire

In early October of 2014, reports of filming taking place in Rivington, Lancashire, spread very rapidly in the local area before being confirmed by the local press a couple of days later. The film, starring Liam Neeson and Sigourney Weaver, is called A Monster Calls. Nothing to do with UFOs, of course - except that a few years earlier, there had been several reports of UFOs centring on the Pigeon Tower, high up on Rivington itself, and the same site where this later filming took place. However, those older reports were dismissed at the time in the press as being due to a film crew being active in the area - though no-one claimed responsibility, it was never established which film crew it was, nothing was ever broadcast (as far as is known) and there were no rumours about filming in the local area. It seems to me that if there had, locals would have found out long before the newspapers wrote it up!

THE HIDDEN UNITY and BEGINNINGS

The Hidden Unity looks at the strange phenomenon of subconscious siting of ley points, and notes that places of worship, of all religions and all ages, tend to predominate on leys. The environmental and philosophical implications of this are discussed, and the apparent necessity of worship but irrelevance of doctrine. Two ley centres are given as examples, and investigated in depth - the Shah Jehan Mosque in Woking and the Guru Nanak Sikh Temple, Scunthorpe. There is an appendix by Eileen Grimshaw on the significance of the Pagan religion to this study. Illustrated with photographs, maps and line drawings. £2 plus 30p p&p from the Amskaya address. Please make cheques payable to J. Goddard.

Beginnings is about a series of potentially useful discoveries, mainly made by Jimmy Goddard over a period of about twenty years, but having some overlap with discoveries made by others. For various reasons, the investigations are all in their early stages, and some have not been continued. They include earth energy detection, natural antigravity, subconscious siting, ley width, and the solar transition effect. There is also a chapter on cognitive dissonance - a psychological factor which seems to have been at the root of all bigotry - scientific, religious and other - down the ages. The booklet is concluded with an account of the discovery of leys by Alfred Watkins. £2 plus 30p p&p from the Amskaya address. Please make cheques payable to J. Goddard.

EARTH PEOPLE, SPACE PEOPLE

In 1961, Tony Wedd produced a manuscript Earth Men, Space Men, detailing many claims of extraterrestrial contact. It was never published, and I had thought it was lost, though it has recently been located - Tony had given it to Timothy Good. To try to make up for the loss in a much more modest size, this booklet was prepared. As well as giving details of some of the more prominent contact claims, there are articles on the history of the STAR Fellowship and some of its personalities, evidence for life in the Solar System and investigation into extraterrestrial language.
